

Policy on Ownership of Course Materials

I. Purpose and Scope

The University of California Policy on Copyright Ownership (August 19, 1992) sets forth the University's policy for works produced at, by, or through the University of California, its campuses, and the Department of Energy Laboratories.

The purpose of this policy is to supplement the existing Policy on Copyright Ownership to address copyright ownership issues related to materials prepared for instructional purposes at the University of California.

II. Definitions

A. For purposes of this Policy, the following definitions shall apply:

1. Course Materials

Materials prepared for use in teaching, fixed or unfixed, in any form, including, but not limited to, digital, print, audio, visual, or any combination thereof. Course materials include, but are not limited to, lectures, lecture notes, and materials, syllabi, study guides, bibliographies, visual aids, images, diagrams, multimedia presentations, web-ready content, and educational software.

2. Course ~~Syllabus~~ Approval Documents

~~A course description~~ Documents submitted, reviewed and approved pursuant to applicable Academic Senate ~~regulations,~~ regulations related to the approval of courses of instruction, typically consisting of a course description, a statement of learning objectives and a topical outline ~~for an approved course of instruction~~.

3. Exceptional University Resources

University Resources (including but not limited to University Facilities and University Funds, as described below) significantly in excess of the usual support generally available to similarly situated faculty members. Such things as ordinary secretarial support, library facilities, office space, personal computers, ordinary access to computers and networks, and academic year salary are not Exceptional University Resources.

4. Designated Instructional Appointees

Those University employees who serve as instructors of record and therefore have a general obligation to produce course materials. Included are all members of the Academic Senate. Appointees in other academic titles may also be designated by the appropriate Chancellor or Vice President.

B. The following definitions from the University of California Policy on Copyright Ownership are also used in this Policy:

1. ~~Designated Academic Appointees~~

~~Those University employees who have a general obligation to produce scholarly/aesthetic works. Included are all appointees in the Professor series, In-Residence series, and the Professional Research series. Appointees in other academic titles may also be designated by the appropriate Chancellor or Vice President as having the obligation to produce scholarly/aesthetic works~~

2. ~~Originator(s)~~

One who produces a work by his or her own intellectual labor. When there is more than one originator, the ownership of each originator's contribution shall be considered separately pursuant to this Policy.

3. ~~2. University Facilities~~

Buildings, equipment, and other facilities under the control of the University, that are designated by the appropriate Chancellor, Laboratory Director, or Vice President as requiring an advance agreement, from non-University personnel and University personnel acting outside the scope of their employment, concerning the disposition of any copyrighted works that are originated with the use of these facilities. Such facilities normally include campus computer centers and normally do not include University libraries. For the purposes of this Policy, the Department of Energy Laboratories are considered to be under the control of the University.

4. ~~3. University Funds~~

Funds, regardless of source, that are administered under the control, responsibility, or authority of the University.

5. ~~4. University Resources~~

University funds or facilities.

6. ~~5. Work~~

Any copyrighted expression, including literary work (written lectures are included); musical work including any accompanying words; dramatic work, including any accompanying music; pantomimes and choreographic work; pictorial, graphic, and sculptural work; motion pictures and other audiovisual work; sound recordings; and computer software.

III. Ownership of Course Materials

A. Ownership of Course Materials Originated by Designated AeademieInstructional Appointees.

Except as provided below, ownership of the rights to Course Materials, including copyright, shall reside with the Designated AeademieInstructional Appointee who creates them. However, the University retains a fully paid-up, royalty-free, perpetual, and non-exclusive worldwide license to any Course SyllabusApproval Documents for the purpose of continuing to teach the course of instruction for which the syllabus was documents were prepared, with the non-exclusive right to revise and update as required for this purpose.

B. Personal Work, Student Work, Sponsored Work, Commissioned Work, and Contracted Facilities Work.

Ownership of Course Materials that constitute Personal Works, Student Works, Sponsored Works, Commissioned Works, or Contracted Facilities Works are defined in and shall be governed by the University of California Policy on Copyright Ownership.

C. Course Materials Created with the Use of Exceptional University Resources.

Ownership of the rights to Course Materials created, in whole or in part, by Designated AeademieInstructional Appointees with the use of Exceptional University Resources shall be governed by a written agreement entered into between the Originator(s) and the University. The agreement shall specify the way in which rights will be owned and controlled and the way in which any revenues will be divided if the materials are commercialized.

~~Originator(s) and University officials are encouraged to explore the need for an agreement whenever it appears thatChancellors are responsible to identify and manage University Resources under their control. Consistent with this responsibility, Chancellors shall develop consistent campus policies and procedures to assist campus resource managers to determine when Exceptional University Resources are involvedin creation of a particular Work or when there is any uncertainty about the ownership of rights for the Work. It is in the interest of the Originator(s) and the University that assessment of and assess the need for an agreement takes place at the earliest possible time in the life cycle of prior to the commitment of resources to a project to which this provision might apply.~~

~~apply. In the absence of an agreement, rights to Course Materials created with the useThe University may at any time request a new agreement, or renegotiation of an existing agreement, as a condition for the subsequent allocation or continuation of Exceptional University Resources shall belong jointly to the Originator(s) and the University. Before these materials are commercialized, the Originator(s) and the University shall enter into a written agreement specifying who shall control the useprovided to Designated of the materials and how any revenues will be divided. If no~~

~~agreement can be reached, the matter shall be referred to the Course Materials Policy Committee.~~

~~Copies of all agreements on Course Materials created with the use of Exceptional University Resources shall be filed with the UC Standing Committee on Copyright.~~

~~D. Jointly Originated Works.~~

~~Ownership of rights to Course Materials that are created by the intellectual labor of more than one person shall be owned jointly, pursuant to the provisions of the University of California Policy on Copyright Ownership, Section V. If Course Materials are created jointly, including the intellectual labor of Designated Academic Appointee(s) and others, ownership of the contributions of Designated Academic Appointee(s) shall be governed by this Policy, and the contribution of others shall be governed by the University of California Policy on Copyright Ownership. Ownership of the rights to jointly originated Works shall be determined by separately assessing the Category of Work of each Originator pursuant to the University of California Policy on Copyright Ownership.~~

~~IV. Course Materials Policy Committee~~

~~A Course Materials Policy Committee shall be established at each campus. The committee shall be advisory to the Chancellor and shall consist of at least five members, a majority of whom shall be appointed by the divisional Academic Senate. This committee will make recommendations to the Chancellor regarding any issues concerning: (1) what constitutes the use of Exceptional University Resources; and (2) the commercialization of Course Materials created with the use of Exceptional University Resources. The Course Materials Policy Committee shall make a written report of its recommended resolution of each issue, which shall be filed with the Chancellor of the campus and with the UC Standing Committee on Copyright.~~

~~V. Standing Committee on Copyright~~

~~For the purposes of promoting Universitywide consistency in the interpretation of this Policy and providing a means for the University to gain the benefit of the diverse experiences of the campuses, the UC Standing Committee on Copyright will regularly review the reports of the campus Course Materials Policy Committees and of agreements on Course Materials created with the use of Exceptional University Resources, and make recommendations to the Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs for policy revisions or implementation guidelines that may be needed to achieve these purposes.~~

~~VI. Using Course Materials Outside the University.~~

~~In using Course Materials outside the University of California, Designated Academic Appointees shall abide by applicable University policies, including, but not limited to:~~

~~□The use of the University's name (DA 0864, May 3, 1985) (<http://www.ucop.edu/ucophome/coordrev/da/da0864.html>) and seal (DA 0865, May 3, 1985) (<http://www.ucop.edu/ucophome/coordrev/da/da0865.html>)~~
